Tatyana Egorovna Nazarova is a representative of the generation of teachers whose life is connected with the university from the first meeting. The timid steps of a young woman into adult student life, the creation of a family, social life and becoming a scientist, the smiles of grateful students, the recognition of colleagues, joy for her family, children and grandchildren, who continue the family traditions in the pedagogical and scientific careers....

Tatyana Egorovna Nazarova (Fedorova), Candidate of Pedagogical Sciences, Associate Professor of the Department of General Linguistics and Rhetoric of the Faculty of Philology, was born on 22 January 1944 in the village of Khaptagai, Megino-Kangalassky district of YASSR in the family of teacher Egor Nikolayevich and Marfa Semyonovna Fedorovs. After graduating from school no. 2 in Yakutsk, she worked in her home village, as was customary for young people in the Soviet Union. In 1963, she entered the Yakutsk State University in the Department of Russian Language and Literature and has not left its walls since then. Tatyana Egorovna is still remembered in the academic departments of the university, where she worked as a laboratory assistant in different years. In 1979, she began her teaching career at the Faculty of Philology, where she still works at the Department of General Linguistics and Rhetoric. In 2001, Tatyana Egorovna defended her candidate thesis "Methodological bases for the organisation of a remedial course of Russian language (for university entrants and first-year students)" at the YSU Doctoral Council of Pedagogy under the supervision of Doctor of Pedagogical Sciences M.M. Fomin.

Tatyana Egorovna teaches students such important disciplines of the general university education system as "Russian Language and Speech Culture", "Rhetoric", "Oratory" and "Business Russian". For many years Tatyana Egorovna has taught hundreds of bilingual students the culture of oral and written speech in the state language. Over the years, she has developed and successfully tested her own teaching model. The training programme is designed for students of different levels of Russian language proficiency, it is interesting both for those who speak Russian perfectly and for those who have great difficulties in communicating in Russian. The textbook for the development of language activity is the most famous novel in verse by Tatyana Egorovna's favourite poet, "Eugene Onegin". Tatyana had this idea - to teach coherent speech using Pushkin's work as an example - for a long time, and the creation of a whole programme began in 1990. Since 1993, students and colleagues have been participants and spectators of the holiday "Time of Hope and Tender Sadness", which is the result of the independent work of each individual student. The roadmap "Journey through the novel in verse "Eugene Onegin" by A.S. Pushkin, rhetoric training, the SIW programme "In search of the union of magic sounds, feelings and souls" – all this contributes to the development of coherent monologic speech, the construction of correct grammatical constructions, the disclosure of oratorical potential of a young person. As a result of the SIW programme, the student's interest in Russian culture and the study of the Russian language increases, a feeling of love for the great Russian people and state arises, the outlook broadens, and the attitude to life changes. Here we can rightly repeat the aphorism "Pushkin is our everything!" A detailed study of the text of the novel in verse gives modern students an opportunity to understand the wisdom of life. This is such a new facet of Pushkin's influence on the life of society even in the 21st century!

Students do not forget to maintain the level of literacy in writing when they master the Russian orthography study maps compiled by Tatyana Egorovna. In December 2022, the textbook "The roadmap of journey through Pushkin's novel "Eugene Onegin". Rhetoric training" as a result of many years of experiments of the scientist and methodologist T.E. Nazarova to improve the effectiveness of teaching the Russian language.

Tatyana Egorovna is the author of 56 scientific, pedagogical and methodological works, including the monograph "Innovative Methods of Teaching Speech activity and Rhetoric", three textbooks. She has repeatedly won the STC competition of the NEFU, for example, in 2010 in the nomination "The best scientific and innovative development" for the development of an innovative pedagogical technology for teaching speech activity in Russian, in 2016. Tatyana Egorovna was awarded the First Degree Diploma in the nomination "Best Monograph" in the field of "Psychological and Pedagogical Sciences". As one of the best methodologists in Russia, Tatyana Egorovna was included in the bibliographical reference book "Methods of Russian Language Teaching and Russian Studies in Essays on Scientists of Siberia and the Far East" in 2013.

From her early youth T.E. Nazarova showed herself to be a person with an active civil position: while studying at School No. 2 in Yakutsk, Tatyana Egorovna was elected secretary of the Komsomol organisation. An example of her active work in this capacity is the fact that the entire graduating class of 1962, headed by the secretary of the Komsomol Committee Secretary Tatyana Fedorova (Nazarova by her husband), went to work in agricultural production in the Alekseevsky (now Tattinsky) and Megino-Kangalassky districts. Tatyana Fedorova was awarded a diploma from the Yakutsk regional committee of the Komsomol for her great contribution to work with young people.

Years later, Tatyana Egorovna Nazarova, a mother of many children, was elected Head of the Parents' Committee of Secondary School No. 2 in Yakutsk (1986-1998). In this position, she worked with the school administration and parents to establish the school's Board of Trustees and the Alumni Association and to organise the school's anniversary celebrations. Tatyana Egorovna played a major role in strengthening the material and technical base of the Children's City Music School No. 2 in Yakutsk (now the Children's School of Art No. 1). The school was located in an old wooden building on Ordzhonikidze Street. At a public meeting in Yakutsk, T.E. Nazarova's speech proposing to give the building of the House of Political Enlightenment to children was decisive, and today many young citizens have the opportunity to study art in a beautiful building in the heart of the capital.

Tatyana Egorovna's significant contribution to the training of specialists for our republic and her active civil position were recognised with a certificate of honour from the Yakutsk City Administration. Tatyana Egorovna, as a pro-former and chair of the Faculty of Philology Trade Union Bureau, organised work in support of university veterans, war and home front veterans, and social support for university staff and students. She was elected three times as a member and deputy vice-chairman of the electoral commission in the Sergelyakh constituency for the election of people's deputies and the leadership of the country. Her work as a vice dean for educational work fell during the difficult transformative years. Then Tatyana Egorovna did a lot to improve the life and leisure time of FPh students, residents of the 14th student building. And then there was her work in the Society "Knowledge", in the League of Women Scientists of Faculty of Philology, in the Council of Mentors of NEFU.

Tatyana Egorovna is a mother of many children, a happy grandmother and great-grandmother. Married to Timofey Vasilyevich Nazarov, a professor at the Institute of Physics and Technology, she brought up four children, who continued the family traditions and connected their lives with their native university. A warm and hospitable hostess, a keeper of the home, Tatyana Egorovna is kind and approachable, full of worldly wisdom, which she shares with the students and colleagues around her.

Tatyana Egorovna and Timofey Vasilyevich Nazarovs are well-known patrons of the arts, founders of the Vasily Vasilyevich Nazarov scholarship for the best graduate of the I. Alekseev Khaptagai secondary school of the Megino-Kangalassky district. They have organised systematic work to promote innovative methods of teaching Russian language and physics, holding seminars for teachers in schools across the Republic. Enthusiastic, fully devoted to the formation of a new generation of professionals, patriots of the republic, new technical and engineering intelligentsia, the Nazarov family is a role model, a source of motivation for new generations of university teachers and school teachers.

The staff of the Faculty of Philology and the Department of General Linguistics and Rhetoric congratulate Tatyana Egorovna Nazarovna on her glorious anniversary and wish her good health, happiness, active creativity and new successes in the pedagogical field!
